

Consensus and Group Judgments: Perspectives from Philosophy and Economics

Seminar WiSe 2022/23

LECTURERS

Prof. Dr. Stefan Napel

Prof. Dr. Olivier Roy

SYNOPSIS AND OBJECTIVES

Attitudes like beliefs and preferences are routinely attributed to groups. A jury can be said to believe the accused to be guilty, or a professional board can officially voice its disapproval of certain practices by its members. There are two main paradigms in philosophy and economics for the formation of such collective attitudes: the deliberative and the aggregative views. According to the deliberative view, group attitudes stem from a consensus reached after a structured exchange of opinions. According to the aggregative view, group attitudes are formed by putting together the possibly diverging views of individuals, through a formal voting procedure for instance.

The aim of this seminar is threefold. First, the students will understand the respective importance of the deliberative and the aggregative view in the broader philosophical landscape, especially in political philosophy and epistemology. Second, they will gain familiarity with various mathematical and economic models of, and results about deliberation and aggregation. Finally, they will be able to assess the philosophical significance of these models and results for our understanding of collective attitudes.

ASSESSMENT

Philosophy & Economics:

- V4/5 seminar 5 cp: presentation, comment, participation + 3500-4000 word seminar paper.
- P2*, P5* seminar 2 cp: presentation, comment, participation.

Economics, IWE

- Theoretisches Seminar 5 cp: presentation, comment, participation, 3500–4500

ENROLMENT/REGISTRATION:

The registration proceeds in two steps.

1. Course Registration on CampusOnline. You will then be automatically placed on the “waiting list” for the course.
2. Topic selection by contact with the lecturers (Napel and Roy).
Topics will be allocated on a first-come-first-served basis.

Registration is only complete when the topic has been agreed on and you have been assigned a place on CampusOnline. Deadline for a complete registration: November 11th, 2022, 12:00.

SEMINAR INSTRUCTIONS

1. Time allowed: presentation of 45 min., comment of 5 min, discussion of 30 mins.
2. Presentations should be a concise and systematic overview of the topic in the form of a “teaching lecture”.
3. Each presentation will be assigned to one other participant, who is to comment on / initiate the discussion of the contents of the presentation. Presenters are required to send their close-to-final presentation drafts to both instructors and the respective commenters at least seven days before the seminar session.
4. The literature given below is a starting point for your lecture. You are typically expected to find additional material yourself.
5. Your presentation should be fully ready at the beginning of the seminar. In case of last-minute changes in schedule, you might be asked to present earlier than announced.

SEMINAR PAPERS

Your seminar paper should be on a well-defined issue related to your presentation topic. The focus and the intended key references/data sources of your seminar paper should be coordinated with the instructors before you start writing.

Please make sure when writing your paper that you maintain scholarly standards of presentation and citation. For guidance, please consult any of the research papers that can be found on either of our websites. We recommend that you use the author-date (Harvard) referencing system.
